

Cancer Trends Progress Report – 2009/2010 Update

Note to users: This report has been dynamically generated and includes only those portions of the Cancer Trends Progress Report - 2007 Update that you selected from the menu. Dynamically generating the report, as opposed to simply linking documents that have been previously saved, results in a document that contains the most current information on the Website (even if the Website was updated only minutes prior to generating the report). One problem that occurs sometimes is that spacing is not optimized, as it would be in a document that is created manually. Thus, for example, a section heading may be located at the bottom of a page with the contents of the section on the next page. Hopefully, that occasional inconvenience is far outweighed by the convenience of being able to print out only that information which is needed.